

Chino Champion (CA)

Let It Be scary

Published: October 31, 2009

Halloween came early to the families assisted by The Let It Be Foundation when members of the foundation's junior teams delivered large Halloween buckets filled with candy to the children. The youth, consisting of the Junior Advisory Team and the Junior Links Team, caravanned to the homes of six families on Oct. 26, delivering a poster and candy bucket to each house. The posters were made by the Ayala High School Renaissance Team.

After visiting the families, the youth went out to dinner still wearing their costumes. "Going to the homes in our costumes knowing that we were going to bring a little bit of cheer to the families was definitely an exciting experience," said Heather Durham, junior advisory team member.

The Let It Be Foundation provides support to families who have children with life-threatening illnesses. Information: 613-9161

Members of The Let It Be Foundation's Junior Advisory and Junior Links teams put on their Halloween costumes Monday night to deliver candy to families being cared for by the foundation.

Copyright, 2009, Champion Newspapers, All Rights Reserved.